

ACADEMIC MOBILITY: ALGERIAN STUDENTS IN UKRAINE

XXI century is characterized by the development of globalization and integration in economics and business, deepening international relations, particularly in education. The process of international exchange of knowledge is called the international academic mobility.

Academic student mobility is an opportunity to have a period of training study one or more semesters in another educational or research institutions, which train specialists in the same specialty with enrollment courses (credits) and periods of study; efficiently develop intellectual potential as a student can choose their own school, courses, subjects. Every student at least once wistfully imagined himself with a bunch of books in one hand and a sandwich in the second on the sunny courtyard of the foreign university. Sorbonne, Yale, Oxford, Cambridge it seems to us so far away and unachievable. I would like to provide some arguments to support students' academic mobility. The first one is variety of specialism we can choose from. You can't just find everything available in your country or city, you can have a bigger dream to achieve, and you won't stop just like that! So if you want to be successful in your life you wouldn't stop at that point, you should go away and discover the outside world and at the same time, realize your dream of specialty and build up your future career. Sometimes it is about getting a higher level; a better place to develop yourself / your skills, somewhere where they give you more attention and have a faith on you.

The second advantage that we can learn a specialism and study a foreign language at the same time. Studying abroad grants you the opportunity to completely immerse yourself in a new language, and there is no better way to learn than to dive right in.

The third plus is the personality growth. There is no big plan, you just have to follow adventure full of life and develop the skills that you need to have to go through life in the best way possible. Building up knowledge is wonderful, but what it's really about is getting experiences and diving into adventures. It could look so simple and easy to care about yourself by yourself, to do your own stuffs, to take responsibilities, to face some problems that may and going to happen for sure. But in fact it's definitely not. All the hardship you are going to go through is for your benefit! For a better bright future it all takes a role of what you are going to be in the next few years. A competitive environment where you learn it's sometimes the survival of the fittest, to know winning, how to accept defeat and learn from it and break free from the limits imposed on us, which will come handy in the future. It's also a challenge.

To go all the way when learning something you are passionate about is the way of youth's life and see all the possibilities that are ahead of you while your biggest challenge is yourself a bit of mix between fun, discipline and determination. Now what it takes is guts. A wise man once said: 'No guts no glory'. It's not about packing the right stuff for your trip abroad, it's about having the right mindset and meeting new friends, new friends that don't look like you, who are different, have a different opinion about life, who come from a different background. Home, sweet home! There is no place like home. But in order to grow up one got to leave it, to grow mentally and come back stronger than ever, and help with its advancement to ensure a better life for everyone.

In conclusion, I'd like to say that now I am a student of Kryvyi Rih National University. We have an opportunity to achieve our dreams in a friendly university environment which allows us to advance more being like a family. Moving forward, academic mobility is the main global trend of development at European educational area that provides a real basis for European and world integration.
